PREFACE.

THE purpose for which this Catalogue was first printed having passed, the compiler desires to make it of more permanent value to connoisseurs and lovers of the works of Landseer, and therefore has included the unengraved as well as the engraved works of our great artist; he has added the more important subjects which are only partially known. This edition has also a separate index for the unengraved pictures, which can be distinguished by the absence of numbers. An index to the names of the various engravers is given. The compiler has embodied as much information as possible relative to each picture. The short descriptions and anecdotes are believed to be authentic, having been obtained direct from the parties named or from personal knowledge acquired in business transactions.

Landseer was fastidious in his art, hence he left many sketches and unfinished works, some barely indicated, others more advanced. It is said of him that he would at times place a clean canvas on his easel and for a day and sometimes for several days let it remain without touching pencil or brush, until the entire subject had become matured in his mind, when he would commence to sketch and paint with extreme rapidity and precision. No doubt he laboured at the mechanical portion of his art in close study and drawing from models as other men have to do, but his best work was from within rather than from without. The humour, interest, pathos, cunning, and in some cases the ferocity expressed by his animals, did not come so much from models mechanically and laboriously copied, as from the revelations of genius, matured however by intense study of the originals. It has been said that his animals have too much of human expression, and this has been objected to; but the abiding value of Landseer's work will be in this grand speciality, which distinguished him above all other painters of animals, namely, that farce, comedy, or tragedy, are to be found in some of his groups, and one or other in single subjects, which all classes of persons understand and appreciate who have the pleasure of looking at a Landseer picture or engraving. Haydon, in one of his lectures, stated that Landseer and Lance were both students under him, and to Lance he remarked, "Still life will be your forte, you must be the Weenix of English art;" to Landseer he said, "Study animals, and be the Snyders of England."

NOTE.—Subjects marked thus * indicate that the Pictures or Drawings were exhibited at the Royal Academy of Arts, Burlington House, which Exhibition closed March 14, 1874, and those marked thus † were the exhibited Sketches. Figures in parenthesis (139) are the numbers in the Royal Academy catalogue.

(AGED 13.)

24. Alpine Mastiff (133) Etched by Thomas Landseer 1818
 The figure was inserted by Thomas Landseer. It was exhibited at the Society of Painters in Oil and Water Colours, Spring Gardens, in 1817. The dog, named Lion, was brought to Leasowe Castle in 1815, and belonged to Mr. Boody or Bullock, who had a house in Baker Street, London. Master Landseer saw the dog in the street, and following him home asked permission to paint it. The first pencil drawing was sold in a scrap book at the Artist's sale, lot 1014, and fetched 122 guineas. It was bought by Mrs. Mackenzie. The original drawing belonged formerly to T. Y. Gooderson, Esq., and was sold at his sale at Christie's, April 15, 1861, lot 62, for 9 guineas. It was afterwards sold at Mr. White's sale, April 18, 1868, lot 603, for 10½ guineas, to Messrs. Henry Graves & Co., who sold it to J. S. Morgan, Esq., its present owner.
25. Pointer Bitch and Puppy Etched by ditto 1818
 The original drawing, with the puppy at the side instead of beneath, was sold at the Artist's sale, lot 558, for £63, to Mr. Whitehead. The animals belonged to W. W. Simpson, Esq. The drawing was exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1815.
26. Brutus Engraved by John Outrim 1852
 This dog was the father of Edwin Landseer's Brutus, and belonged to W. W. Simpson, Esq. The picture was painted for the top of a snuff box. The box was purchased at Mr. Simpson's sale, and now belongs to Mrs. Spencer Bell.
27. Ram's Head Etched by Thomas Landseer 1818
- A Mule Not engraved
 The property of W. W. Simpson, Esq., of Beleigh Grange, Essex. Exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1815.
- The Paddock Not engraved
 A chestnut horse, with Brutus. This picture was once the property of W. W. Simpson, Esq., and was sold at his sale in 1842 for 100 guineas; it now belongs to Mrs. Spencer Bell.

1816.

(AGED 14.)

Edwin Landseer became a Student of the Royal Academy in this year.

28. Head and Tail of a Persian Cat from Maldon Etched by Thomas Landseer 1816
The original drawing of the head was sold in a scrap book at the Artist's sale, lot 1011. The book was sold for 70 guineas to Messrs. Agnew.
29. Persian Cats at a Window Etched by ditto 1816
With view of the Town Hall of Maldon in the background. There is an impression of this in Her Majesty's collection. The original drawing, without the Town Hall, was sold in a scrap book at the Artist's sale, 1874, lot 1011. The book was sold for 70 guineas to Messrs. Agnew.

1817.

(AGED 15.)

30. Startled Etched by C. G. Lewis 1853
A horse starting at a snake.
31. *Old Brutus and a Retriever (374) Etched by Thomas Landseer 1818
Belonged to W. W. Simpson, Esq. The original drawing was sold at the Artist's sale, lot 664, for 122 guineas, to Mr. Gibbs. There was another drawing included in this lot. A picture with the dogs reversed belongs to J. Hogarth, Esq. The single head of Brutus was exhibited at the Landseer Exhibition, 1874, and sold at the Artist's sale, lot 65, to Messrs. Agnew, for £54 12s., and is probably the same picture exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1817. Another picture was also sold at Christie's, July 4, 1874, lot 53, for £78 15s., to Messrs. Agnew.
- Sleeping Mastiff Not engraved
This picture was sold at the Artist's sale, lot 207, for £100 16s., to its present owner, H. W. Eaton, Esq., M.P. It was probably exhibited at the British Institution in 1818, as a "Study of a Dog." A "Sleeping Dog" was exhibited at the Society of Painters in Oil and Water Colours, Spring Gardens, in 1817. A "Sleeping Dog," dated 1817, was also sold at the Artist's sale, lot 98, for 60 guineas, to Mr. Permain.
- *Chesnut Horse and White Dog (401) Not engraved
This picture belongs to Mrs. Spencer Bell.
- *Greyhound and Dead Hare (454) Not engraved
This picture belongs to Sedley Taylor, Esq.

1818.

(AGED 16.)

32. Brutus with Two Dead Rats Engraved by Miss Jane Worship 1838
She engraved a plate previously of this subject, but it is not good. This dog belonged to W. W. Simpson, Esq.
- *Fighting Dogs getting Wind (422) Not engraved
Exhibited at the Society of Painters in Oil and Water Colours, Spring Gardens, in 1818. It was bought by Sir G. Beaumont, Bart., whose descendant now possesses it.
- *White Horse in a Stable (322) Not engraved
Painted in 1818 for the Right Hon. H. Pierrepont, but not sent home, and when inquired for later could not be found. In 1842, on further inquiry, the picture was discovered in a hayloft, where it had been hidden by a dishonest servant, and was sent by Sir Edwin to Mr. Pierrepont with a letter, in which he says that the white horse "is the first of that complexion I ever painted;" and that he has not retouched it, thinking it "better to leave my early style unmingled with that of my old age." In answer to a question as to price, he mentions that the sum he was accustomed to receive at the time of painting this picture was 10 guineas. The picture belongs to Lady Charles Wellesley. "A Portrait of an Old Horse," exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1818, is probably this picture.
- A Donkey Not engraved
Exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1818. David Wilkie wrote of this picture, "young Landseer's jackasses are also good."

1819.

(AGED 17.)

33. *The Braggart (453) Engraved by Richard Parr 1832
Painted to represent England, Scotland, and Ireland. The original picture belongs to James Reiss, Esq. A sketch of two of the dogs was sold at the Artist's sale, lot 375, for 21 guineas, to Messrs. Agnew.
34. *The Intruder (265) Engraved by H. S. Beckwith 1830
The cat disturbed. The original picture belongs to Sir Philip de M. G. Egerton, Bart. It was exhibited at the British Institution in 1819, and purchased there for 25 guineas by Sir John Grey Egerton, Bart. It was also exhibited at the Society of British Artists in 1826, as "The Intrusive Visitor," and at the Art Treasures Exhibition at Manchester in 1857.
35. A Spaniel lying down Etched by C. G. Lewis 1841
The original sketch belongs to Henry Squire, Esq.
36. Sportsman and Spaniels Etched by ditto 1830
The original drawing belongs to C. G. Lewis, Esq.

- Newfoundland Dog and Rabbit ... Not engraved
Exhibited at the British Institution in 1819.

1820.

(AGED 18.)

37. Seven Scraps ... Etched by C. G. Lewis 1832
From drawings in a sketch book.
38. Deer in Repose ... Etched by ditto 1838
The original drawing belongs to C. G. Lewis, Esq.
39. A Bull Dog ... Etched by ditto 1830
From a pencil drawing.
40. Goat and details ... Etched by ditto 1828
The original pencil sketch belongs to C. G. Lewis, Esq.
41. Cæsar ... Etched by Edwin Landseer 1820
Etched from a sketch made while painting the following picture.
42. †Alpine Mastiffs Reanimating a Traveller (299) Engraved by John Landseer, A.R.A. 1831
This plate is partly engraved by Thomas Landseer. The left hand dog is Cæsar, the son of Lion, No. 24. The original picture was exhibited at the British Institution in 1820, and formerly belonged to Jesse Watts Russell, Esq., who exhibited it at the Art Treasures Exhibition at Manchester in 1857; it was sold at his sale, July 3, 1875, lot 29, for £2257 10s. to Messrs. Agnew. A smaller finished picture was once the property of Joseph Gillott, Esq., at whose sale at Christie's, April 26, 1872, lot 223, it was bought by S. Addington, Esq., for £1827. A sketch of this subject was sold at the Artist's sale, lot 217, for £36 15s., to — Guinness, Esq. Another sketch was sold at Christie's, February 22, 1845, lot 94, for £151 4s., to Mr. Creswick. This subject has since been engraved larger by William Greatbach. It was also lithographed by G. A. Fitzwygram, Esq.
43. *To-ho !!!! (389) ... Etched by C. G. Lewis 1830
From the original sketch for the picture sold at Mr. Gillott's sale at Christie's, April 26, 1872, lot 220, for £2016. The original drawing belongs to C. G. Lewis, Esq. The large picture now belongs to J. Duguid, Esq., and was exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1820, at the British Institution in 1821, and at the Society of British Artists in 1826. It has since been engraved by Thomas Landseer, A.R.A.
44. The Vulture's Prey ... Etched by ditto 1848
The horse was sketched in a knacker's yard, in red chalk, and the landscape inserted to make a subject. The original drawing belongs to C. G. Lewis, Esq. It formerly belonged to Mr. Hogarth, who commissioned the plate, and when he asked the price, Mr. Lewis offered to take the original drawing as payment, which was agreed to.
45. The Chase ... Etched by ditto 1828
From a pencil drawing. The original drawing belongs to C. G. Lewis, Esq.
46. Deer's Nose, Ear, Eye, &c. ... Etched by ditto 1838
The original drawing belongs to C. G. Lewis, Esq.
47. The Expectant Dog ... Lithograph
The dog was the property of the Hon. F. Byng, a very distinguished member of the Humane Society. Dedicated to the Hon. Frederick Byng, Metropolitan Commissioner of Sewers. Exhibited at the Society of Painters in Oil and Water Colours, Spring Gardens, in 1820.
- *The Thistle and the Ass laden with pro- } Not engraved visions (393) ... }
Exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1812. It was formerly the property of Henry Webb, Esq., and was sold at Christie's, July 8, 1862, lot 240, for £204 15s., to Messrs. Agnew. It now belongs to Jos. Fenton, Esq.
- Rival Candidates ... Not engraved
Exhibited at the Society of Painters in Oil and Water Colours, Spring Gardens, in 1820, and the British Institution in 1821. This picture may possibly be the same as "Who's to have the Stick," under 1824.
- A Lion enjoying his repast ... Not engraved
Exhibited at the British Institution in 1821. It belonged formerly to Ralph Fletcher, Esq., at whose sale at Christie's, June 28, 1851, lot 32, it was sold for £162 15s., to Mr. Gambart.
- A Lion disturbed at his repast ... Not engraved
Exhibited at the British Institution in 1821. These two pictures are both very large, and were produced after an opportunity for dissection offered itself, through the death of a lion at the Exeter Exchange Menagerie. A sketch of this picture belongs to Mrs. Spencer Bell.
- Interior of a Hacker's Shop ... Not engraved
Exhibited at the Society of Painters in Oil and Water Colours, Spring Gardens, in 1820.
- Two Wolves ... Not engraved
This picture was sold at the Artist's sale, lot 97, for £84, to Messrs. Agnew.

1821.

(AGED 19.)

48. An Old English Bloodhound ... Engraved by W. R. Smith 1835
A sketch of a bloodhound was exhibited by Jacob Bell, Esq., at the Marylebone Literary Institute in 1859; he describes it as an early work, and taken from a dog at Woburn.
49. Dancing Lesson ... Engraved by J. C. Zeitter 1827
This plate was engraved against the Artist's wish. He consequently bought up all the copies he could get and destroyed them.
50. Pointers... Etched by W Thomson
There is an impression of this in the collection of His Grace The Duke of Buccleuch, K.G.
51. *Rat Catchers (285-301) ... Engraved by Thomas Landseer 1823
Brutus, Boxer, and Vixen—the Artist's dogs. There are two or three pictures of this subject, one belongs to the Rev. J. Gott, and the second to John Chapman, Esq.; it was exhibited by him at the Art Treasures Exhibition at Manchester in 1857. One of these was once the property of Sir Francis Freeling, and was sold at his sale at Christie's, April 4, 1836, for £116, to Mr. Hitchcock. One of these pictures was exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1821 and 1822, another at the British Institution in 1822, and one at the Society of British Artists in 1828.
52. *Intruding Puppies (204) ... Engraved by ditto 1827
Painted for Lord De Tabley; sold at Christie's at his sale, July 7, 1827, lot 30, for £173 5s., to Edward Merryweather, Esq. Afterwards belonged to J. C. Cankrien, Esq.; sold at his sale at Christie's, June 4, 1853, lot 69, for £656, to Mr. Wallis. The original picture was exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1821, and now belongs to R. Johnson, Esq. Some chalk sketches for this picture were sold at the Artist's sale, lot 376, for 21 guineas, to Messrs. Agnew.
53. Tapageur ... Engraved by Robert Mitchell 1852
The original picture belongs to Lady Williams.
- *Seizure of a Boar (381) ... Not engraved
Exhibited at the British Institution in 1821. It now belongs to the Marquess of Lansdowne.

1822.

(AGED 20.)

54. Dogs Worrying a Frog ... Etched by Edwin Landseer 1822
55. Low Life ... Etched by ditto 1822
Portrait of Jack. A pencil sketch of this subject was sold at the Artist's sale, lot 1012. The scrap book that contained it sold for 96 guineas, to Messrs. Agnew.
56. The Sweep ... Etched by ditto 1822
The above three plates belong to the set of Sir Edwin Landseer's etchings.
57. Twa Dogs ... Engraved by B. P. Gibbon 1827
The large dog is Neptune—Mr. Gosling's dog. The picture was presented to the Nation by J. Sheepshanks, Esq., in 1857. This subject has been engraved smaller by C. G. Lewis.
58. †The Larder Invaded (424) ... Engraved by Thomas Landseer 1847
The original sketch on a schoolboy's slate belongs to Mrs. Spencer Bell, and was exhibited by Jacob Bell, Esq., at the Marylebone Institute in 1859. The original picture belonged to Sir Charles H. Coote, Bart.; it was exhibited at the British Institution in 1822, and caused some sensation as the work of a rising artist. The prize of £150 was awarded to him for this picture by the Directors of the Institution. The original oil sketch of the cat was sold at the Artist's sale, lot 90, for £38 17s., to F. Piercy, Esq.
59. *Cora (274) ... Lithographed by Edwin Landseer 1823
A Labrador bitch. Exhibited at the British Institution in 1822, as the "Watchful Sentinel." This subject has since been engraved as "Keeper," by W. T. Davey. The original picture, to which a prize was adjudged by the British Institution in 1823, was originally in the possession of G. Harrison, Esq., and later of Mr. Pennell; it now belongs to John Chapman, Esq. A slight pencil sketch was sold at the Artist's sale, lot 792, for £21, to F. Milbank, Esq., M.P.
60. Puppy and Frog ... Lithographed by Edward Morton 1823
The original picture, exhibited at the British Institution in 1824 and the Society of British Artists in 1832, belonged to Robert Vernon, Esq., and was purchased at his sale, July 5, 1849, lot 63, by the late Mr. J. C. Grundy, for £126, and sold by him to Mr. Wass, who sold it in 1850 to Messrs. Agnew. This subject has since been engraved by C. W. Wass.
61. Lion with Sceptre (title) ... Engraved by Thomas Landseer 1823
62. The Old Lion, Nero ... Engraved by ditto 1823
63. Contending Group ... Engraved by ditto 1823
A sketch for this was sold at the Artist's sale in a scrap book, lot 1014, which was sold for 122 guineas, to Mrs. Mackenzie.
64. Tiger and Indian Bullock ... Engraved by ditto 1823
The original water-colour drawing was sold at the Artist's sale, lot 693, for 32 guineas, to Mr. Soames.
65. Lioness and Bitch ... Engraved by ditto 1823
A lioness had been captured in very early cubhood and brought on board a ship, and was suckled by a bitch, for whom, although she soon surpassed her nurse in size and strength, she ever retained the utmost affection and some respect. The attached couple were shown in Exeter Exchange, in Cross's Menagerie, and attracted much admiration and delight. The original drawing was sold at the Artist's sale in a scrap book, lot 1013; the book sold for 115 guineas, and was bought by Messrs. Henry Graves & Co.; and another composition in water colour was also sold there, lot 446, for 62 guineas, to Mr. Miller. This subject was also engraved very small by J. Le Keux.
- The above five plates were engraved for Spilsbury's set of Carnivora, with an essay by J. Landseer, A.R.A.

- 80.*Lion (251) Engraved by C. G. Lewis 1856
A dog, the property of W. H. de Merle, Esq. The original picture belongs still to W. H. de Merle, Esq., who paid the artist £50 for it. On one occasion Landseer wished to see Lion excited. There chanced to be a live mouse in a trap. It was let loose. Lion gave chase, and in an instant the mouse disappeared. Where is it? Has he swallowed it? suggested someone. Nothing of the kind. The mouse had simply found refuge in Lion's huge jaws. The dog seemed much surprised, until his lips were opened, and out jumped the mouse, alive, uninjured, and able to run away. Lion was a splendid fellow, powerful as he was good tempered, but he would not submit to insult. Once walking by the side of a canal, a bargeman tried to tease him by poking at him with his oar. Lion seized the blade, and by a sudden jerk pulled the man into the water. The picture was sent to Paris in a large case at the time of the breaking out of the Revolution, and narrowly escaped being used for a barricade. Mr. Merle says that Landseer begged to defer painting the background until he had paid his first visit to Scotland.
81. The Angler's Guard—Mastiff and Greyhound Lithographed by W. P. Sherlock 1828

The original drawing belongs to H. Vaughan, Esq.
86. Dogs Setting a Hare Engraved by ditto 1824
87. Cross of a Dog and Fox Engraved by ditto 1824
The original picture belonged formerly to Lord Cranley, and afterwards to Jacob Bell, Esq., who exhibited it at the Marylebone Literary Institute in 1859. This picture was obtained under peculiar circumstances. On being asked by a friend what sort of dog it was, Sir Edwin said, "that was rather a strange animal. They call it a fox dog. I painted that many years ago. It was exactly like him." He suddenly threw the picture as far as he could into the garden (the window being open), and said, "you may have it if you will take the trouble to fetch it." It had lodged in a tree, and was very soon transferred to a frame-maker. The picture now belongs to Mrs. Spencer Bell.
- 88.*Brutus (433) Engraved by ditto 1824
The original picture, which differs slightly from the engraving, was sold at the Artist's sale, lot 316, for 630 guineas, to Messrs. Agnew.
- 89.*Neptune (305) Engraved by ditto 1824

111. The Recompense Etched by ditto 1825
 Portrait of Lord Alexander Russell with a Spaniel.
- *Dead Stag and Deerhound (286) Not engraved
 The Artist gave the following account of this incident: One day out deerstalking he wounded a stag, which was followed by his two dogs, both stag and dogs disappearing altogether. In the evening one dog only returned to the house, dead beat. The following evening a shepherd reported having seen that morning a stag closely pursued by a dog, both evidently much exhausted. On his saying that he could take Sir Edwin to the spot where he had seen them, the Artist set out the next morning with his sketching materials, and after a long walk, found the dead stag and dog as depicted in the sketch. The picture belongs to the Trustees of E. D. Gosling, Esq.
- *A Favourite Shooting Pony (444) Not engraved
 Belonging to the Duke of Gordon. The picture was bequeathed by the Duke to Brodie of Brodie, at whose sale at Christie's, May 6, 1869, lot 113, it was purchased by Messrs. Agnew for 150 guineas, and was sold by them to its present owner, W. M. Eaton, Esq.

- 127.†A Scene at Abbotsford (458) ... Engraved by C. Westwood 1828
Engraved for the "Keepsake." Exhibited at the British Institution in 1827. When Mr. Landseer saw Maida, he was in the last stage of weakness and debility, as the artist has admirably expressed in his fading eyes and emaciated limbs. He died six weeks afterwards. The hawks are a gratuitous donation of Mr. Landseer, whose imagination conferred them on a scene where he judged they would be appropriate. The other dog represented in the picture is a deerhound, given to the artist by the Duke of Athol. The picture was presented by the Duke of Bedford to William Adam, Esq., Lord Chief Commissioner of the Jury Court of Scotland. A sketch of Maida without the accessories belongs to Mrs. Spencer Bell.

Agnew, for £1680. It was afterwards the property of William Cotterill, Esq., and was included in his sale, April 26, 1873, lot 244, but was withdrawn; it now belongs to H. W. F. Bolekow, Esq., M.P. The engraving was made from the Duke of Northumberland's picture, and has since been engraved larger by H. T. Ryall, and a medium size by C. E. Wagstaff. A sketch for these pictures was sold at the Artist's sale, lot 287, for £42, to Mr. Muirhead.

129. All that remains of the Glory of William Smith Engraved by John Pye 1836
 William Smith, being possessed of combativeness and animated by a love of glory, enlisted in the 101st regiment of foot. At the battle of Waterloo, on the 18th of June following, a cannon ball carried off one of his legs; thus commenced and terminated William's military career. As he lay wounded on the field of battle, the dog here represented, blind with one eye, and having also a leg shattered apparently by a musket shot, came and sat beside him as 'twere for sympathy. The dog became William's prisoner, and when a grateful country rewarded William's services by a pension and a wooden leg, he stumped about accompanied by the dog, his friend and companion. On the 15th December, 1834, William died. His name never having been recorded in an extraordinary Gazette, this public monument, representing the dog at a moment when he was ill and reclining against the mattress on which his master died, is erected to his memory by Edwin Landseer and John Pye. The original picture belonged to the late John Pye, Esq., and was sold at his sale at Christie's, May 20, 1874, lot 41, for £336, and is now the property of H. W. Eaton, Esq., M.P. 208. Protection—Hen and Chickens ... Engraved by C. G. Lewis 1852
From the "Highland Drovers."
209. Sleeping Bloodhound (Countess) ... Engraved by Thomas Landseer 1837
The picture, exhibited at the British Institution in 1834, was bequeathed to the Nation by Jacob Bell, Esq., in 1859. Mr. Bell gave the following account of the picture. The subject of this picture had been some two or three years waiting her turn for a sitting, and might have waited much longer if a misfortune had not brought about the event rather unexpectedly. She sometimes slept on a large balcony outside her master's room at Wandsworth. One moonlight evening she overbalanced and fell the height of twenty-three feet, and died in the course of the night. The next morning she was taken to St. John's Wood in the hope that at all events a slight sketch might be obtained as a reminiscence of an old favourite. It is an unpardonable offence to break in upon the retirement of an artist in that manner during his daily occupation; but on this occasion the case was urgent, and at all hazards he must be brought out. The sight of the unfortunate hound suddenly changed an expression of something approaching vexation into one of sorrow and sympathy, and after the first expression of regret at the misfortune, the verdict was laconic and characteristic:—"This is an opportunity not to be lost. Go away. Come on Thursday at two o'clock." It was then about the middle of Monday. On Thursday at two o'clock, there was the Countess as large as life, asleep as she is now. This subject has been engraved smaller by C. G. Lewis, and has recently been re-engraved the size of the original by J. C. Webb.
210. Prince George's Favourites ... Engraved by W. Giller 1841
The pony's name was Selim, the Newfoundland dog's Nelson, and the spaniel's Flora. The original picture, exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1835, is now in the possession of H.R.H. The Duke of Cambridge, K.G. There is a small lithograph by Lafosse of this subject.

330. Shoeing ... Engraved by C. G. Lewis 1848
Portraits of Old Betty and Laura. The picture was exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1844 and at the Paris Exhibition in 1855, and was bequeathed to the Nation by Jacob Bell, Esq., in 1859.
- Mr. Bell gives the following account of the picture in his catalogue. It has been reported that the mare would not stand to be shod unless in company with a donkey. The truth is that the intimacy of the mare and the donkey commenced in the studio and was cemented on the canvas. Another rumour states that the scene, as painted, occurred in the forge of a country blacksmith, where the mare was having a shoe fastened, and that the painter was so pleased with the composition that he made an elaborate sketch for the picture on the spot. Some critics have noticed the "oversight" of the mare having no bridle or halter. This was not an oversight, as she would stand to be shod or cleaned without being fastened, but had a great objection to being tied up in a forge or against a post or door. When this has been attempted, she often started back with a sudden jerk and broke the bridle. Other critics have remarked that from the mode of painting the toe of the off fore foot, the mare appears as if her weight rested on only two legs. This was noticed before the picture was finished, and she was placed in position several times for the purpose of ensuring accuracy. In every instance she placed the foot exactly in the position represented.
- The subject originally intended was a mare and foal, with which object the mare was turned out for breeding. In due time the foal arrived, and frequent bulletins were forwarded to St. John's Wood reporting progress, and anxiously requesting an appointment for a sitting. The foal passed through the age of infancy and out-grew its mother. A second foal arrived with the same result, and was sold at about four years old; the idea of the mare and foal picture being then abandoned as hopeless. About a year afterwards Sir Edwin was admiring the condition of the mare, and said, "I am determined to paint Old Betty after all." This being settled and an appointment made, the canvas was found ready, the shoeing subject decided on, and the picture completed for the Royal Academy of the following year.
- This subject has since been engraved smaller and very small by C. G. Lewis. The large plate has been recently copied, and the etched publication line of the original plate inserted on it in such a way as to deceive unpractised eyes. It is known by whom this spurious copy is engraved.

341. The Cavalier's Pets ... Engraved by John Outtrim 1850
Engraved for the "Vernon Gallery." Given to Mr. Vernon in place of the "Lady and Spaniels." The picture was presented to the Nation by Robert Vernon, Esq., in 1847. This subject has since been engraved larger by Alfred Lucas. The dogs were pets of Mr. Vernon's, and the sketch was made in his own house as a commission to Sir Edwin, but after a short sitting, not continued for some time, one day Mr. Vernon met the artist in the street and reminded him of the commission. Two days later the work, as it now appears, was delivered at Mr. Vernon's house, although it was not begun when the meeting took place. Both dogs came to violent ends. The white Blenheim spaniel fell from a table and was killed; the true King Charles fell through the railings of a staircase in his master's house, and was picked up dead at the bottom of the steps.

361. The Shepherd's Bible ... Engraved by Thomas Landseer 1858
This picture was exhibited at the Marylebone Institute by Mr. Jacob Bell for a friend, and the description he gives of it is as follows:—"This is the property of a gentleman who was for many years a candidate for a picture by Sir E. Landseer, and kept a collie dog in the hope that he might some day be so fortunate as to obtain his portrait." The dog died. About two years afterwards he received a note naming a day for sitting. He had fortunately taken care to be provided with another dog in case the chance should occur, and he punctually kept the appointment. On mentioning the fact that the old favourite was dead, and giving a description of his colour and general appearance, Sir Edwin said, "Oh, yes, I know the dog exactly," and made an outline with a few touches that proved the fact. The picture was painted in less than two days, and the portraits are exact, especially the light-coloured dog, which was painted entirely from description. All who knew the original have remarked on seeing the picture, that not only in colour and attitude, but in the expression of his eye it is the dog himself. The original picture, which was exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1849, was painted for and presented to Martin Blackmore, Esq., and afterwards became the property of John Farnworth, Esq., at whose sale, May 19, 1874, lot 98, it was sold for 1400 guineas, to Messrs. Agnew. This subject was previously engraved the same size by C. G. Lewis, as "Collie Dogs," who also etched a very small plate of it.
362. *Forester's Family (225) ... Engraved by T. L. Atkinson 1854
The original picture, exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1849, belongs to His Majesty The King of the Belgians, who exhibited it at the Art Treasures Exhibition at Manchester in 1857. A sketch of the boy with the horns was sold at the Artist's sale, lot 642, for 56 guineas, to His Grace The Duke of Westminster, K.G.; and another very similar, lot 567, for 50 guineas, to Messrs. Vokins. This subject has since been engraved smaller by G. Zobel.
363. *The Free Kirk (193) ... Engraved by ditto 1853

(AGED 49.)

- 371.*Midsummer Night's Dream (236) ... Engraved by Samuel Cousins, R.A. 1857
 Painted for I. K. Brunel, Esq., C.E., for a set of Shakespeare subjects, to be executed for him by different artists (the price of each picture to be 400 guineas). This picture was sold at Christie's, April 20, 1860, lot 225, for £2940. It was purchased by Lord R. Clinton for the late Earl Brownlow. The original picture belongs to the Right Honourable Earl Brownlow. Exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1851.
- 372.*The Monarch of the Glen (436) ... Engraved by Thomas Landseer 1852
 "When first the day star's clear, cool light,
 Chasing night's shadows grey,
 With silver touch'd each rocky height
 That girdled wild Glen—Strae
 Uprose the Monarch of the Glen,
 Majestic from his lair;
 Survey'd the scene with piercing ken,
 And snuffed the fragrant air."
 Legends of Glen Orchay, a poem.
 Painted for the Refreshment Room at the House of Lords for 300 guineas, but rejected by a vote of the House of Commons. The picture was subsequently sold to Lord Londesborough for 800 guineas, and the copyright to Mr. H. Graves for 500 guineas. The original picture belongs now to Lord Otho Fitzgerald, M.P. It has since been engraved smaller by G. Zobel. Exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1851.
373. Geneva ... Engraved by ditto 1860
 The original picture, exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1851, was painted for the late Thomas Cubitt, Esq., and now belongs to Mrs. Cubitt. The arch and church tower are painted by David Roberts, R.A., who inserted them at Sir Edwin's request after the picture was hung at the Academy.
- 374.*†The Best Run of the Season (268-10) ... Engraved by ditto 1853
 Exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1851 as the "Last Run of the Season." The original sketch belongs to Lord Cosmo Russell. The picture belongs to Miss Starkey.

1852.

(AGED 50.)

378. The Deer Pass ... Engraved by Thomas Landseer 1855
 "I'm monarch of all I survey,
 My right there is none to dispute."
 The original picture was painted for Captain Peel, R.N., and now belongs to the Right Honourable Sir Frederick Peel. It was exhibited at the British Institution in 1852. This subject was at first without the group of deer in the foreground, which was afterwards inserted at the request of Mr. Henry Graves, to make it a more engravable subject. The stag close to the rock was the only animal in the picture. It has since been engraved smaller by G. Zobel.
379. Dandie Dinmont and the Hedgehog (167) ... Engraved by Charles Mottram 1874
 An old Skye terrier given to the Queen by H.R.H. Prince Albert, on May 24, 1842. The original picture belongs to Her Majesty The Queen, and hangs at Osborne. It is engraved for the set of "Her Majesty's Pets." Exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1854.

380. Free Trade Lithographed by J. West Giles 1854
The original drawing belongs to Mrs. McConnell.
381. Protection Lithographed by ditto 1854
With portraits of the late Earl of Derby and the Right Honourable B. Disraeli. The original drawing belongs to Mrs. McConnell. These drawings formerly belonged either to Jacob Bell, Esq., or were exhibited by him for a friend at the Marylebone Institute in 1859, and were sold at Christie's, March 9, 1861, lot 112, where they were bought by the late Mr. McConnell for £273.
382. The Watch Tower Engraved by C. G. Lewis 1853
383. Blood Engraved by Thomas Landseer 1852
384. Suspicion Engraved by C. G. Lewis 1853
385. Off Engraved by Thomas Landseer 1853
386. Doomed Engraved by ditto 1853
387. Found Engraved by ditto 1852
388. Missed Engraved by John Outrim 1858

The above seven plates were engraved for the Artist's own work of "The Forest." It was originally intended that Lord Alexander Russell should write letterpress to this work, and Sir E. Landseer sent the drawing of Suspicion out to the Cape for his lordship to see. The original water-colour drawings, the same size as the engravings, were sold at the Artist's sale at Messrs. Christie, Manson, & Woods, lots 461 to 467, and fetched the following sums respectively—45, 48, 150, 110, 150, 100, and 225 guineas. They were all purchased by Messrs. Agnew. The "Suspicion," "Doomed," and "Missed" have since become the property of H. W. F. Bolckow, Esq., M.P., and were published as woodcuts by permission of Messrs. Henry Graves & Co., in the series of studies and sketches in the Art Journal.

(AGED 51.)

- 389.*†Night (295) Engraved by Thomas Landseer 1855
"The moon, clear witness of the fierce affray,
Her wakeful lamp held o'er that lonely place;
Fringing with light the wild lake's fitful spray,
Whilst madly glanced the Borealis race."
- 390.*Morning (287) Engraved by ditto 1855
"Locked in the close embrace of death they lay,
Those mighty heroes of the mountain side;
Contending champions for the kingly sway,
In strength and spirit match'd they fought—and died."
The original picture, exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1853, belongs to the Right Honourable Viscount Hardinge. Exhibited at the International Exhibition in 1862. These subjects have both been engraved smaller by G. Zobel.
- 391.*The Twins (184) Engraved by ditto 1855
The original picture, exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1853, belongs to G. R. Stephenson, Esq. The late Robert Stephenson having been offered a present of plate by the London and North Western Railway Company, elected to have a picture by Landseer, Sir Edwin remarking it was the first time he ever heard of a man choosing to have a picture in place of a service of plate, and he added, "He shall have a good one." "Wind against Tide—Tilbury Fort," by C. Stanfield, R.A., was presented to Mr. Stephenson at the same time by the Railway Company. It has since been engraved smaller by G. Zobel. A companion to this subject, entitled "Mothers," has since been engraved by Charles Mottram after a picture by Eugene Verboeckhoven.

- 392.*†Children of the Mist (300-42) Engraved by ditto 1856
Sir Edwin stated that he received more complimentary notes about this little picture than any he ever painted. Mr. T. Landseer also states he considers it his best engraving. The original sketch belongs to Her Majesty The Queen. The picture was painted for Joseph Miller, Esq., F.R.S., who bequeathed it Thomas Lloyd, Esq., C.B.,; it was sold at Christie's, at his sale, June 5, 1875, lot 102, for £1207, to Messrs. Agnew. It was exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1853, and at the Art Treasures Exhibition in 1857.
393. A Grand Hart Engraved by C. G. Lewis 1853
Shot by H.R.H. The Prince Consort.
- Dog's Head Not engraved —
The property of Mr. Gore, for whom the picture was painted; it was sold at his sale at Christie's, June 18, 1863, lot 81, for £341 5s., to Mr. Earl.

1854.

- 394.*†Her Majesty The Queen in the Highlands (293) Engraved by W. H. Simmons 1873
Containing portraits of Her Majesty The Queen, H.R.H. The Prince Consort, H.R.H. The Prince of Wales, Lady Jocelyn, &c. The original picture belongs to Her Majesty The Queen. The engraving is published under the title of "Royal Sports." Exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1854, and again in 1870.
- *Lady Jocelyn (376) Not engraved —
Sold at the Artist's sale, lot 309, for £54 12s., to Mr. Fores, at whose sale at Christie's, May 29, 1875, lot 754, it was put up and bought in for £63.

1856.

(AGED 54.)

- 395.* Highland Nurses (384) ... Engraved by Thomas Landseer 1858
 Dedicated to Miss Florence Nightingale. Sir Edwin, after a day's stalking, fired a random shot to empty his rifle barrel. At midnight the keeper called him up, the night being moonlight, to shew him the incident as painted. The original picture, exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1856, belongs to F. T. Turner, Esq. This subject has since been engraved smaller by G. Zobel.
- 396.* Saved (151) ... Engraved by Samuel Cousins, R.A. 1859
 Dedicated to the Humane Society. The original picture, exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1856, belonged to Henry Graves & Co., who sold it to John Naylor, Esq., the present owner, for £1653. This subject has since been engraved smaller by G. Zobel.

1857.

(AGED 55.)

397. Wait till he rise ... Engraved by Thomas Landseer 1863
 The original crayon drawing, exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1858, as "Deerstalking," was sold at the Artist's sale, lot 472, for 500 guineas, to Messrs. Agnew.
398. The Grealoch ... Engraved by ditto 1868
 The original crayon drawing was sold at the Artist's sale, lot 477, for 60 guineas to Mr. Young.
- 399.* Precious Trophies (85) ... Engraved by John Outtrim 1858
 The original crayon drawing was sold at the Artist's sale, lot 478, for £315, to Messrs. Agnew.
 The above three plates were engraved for the Artist's own work of "The Forest."
- 400.* Browsing (113) ... Engraved by Thomas Landseer, A.R.A. 1873
 From a crayon drawing presented to W. Wells, Esq., when staying at his house for the benefit of his health. He would, it is said, allow no one to go into his room until it was finished. The original drawing belongs to W. Wells, Esq.
401. Brae-Mar ... Engraved by ditto 1859
 This picture was too large to be removed from the room for the purpose of exhibition at the Royal Academy. The original picture, exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1857, belonged formerly to Edward Ludd Betts, Esq., and was sold at his sale at Christie's, May 30, 1868, lot 68, to Messrs. Agnew, for 4000 guineas; it now belongs to H. W. F. Bolckow, Esq., M.P. This subject has since been engraved smaller by G. Zobel.
- 402.* Uncle Tom and his Wife for Sale (245) ... Engraved by Charles Mottram 1860
 The original picture, exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1857, was sold originally to Messrs. Henry Graves & Co. It afterwards belonged to Frederick Somes, Esq., and was sold at his sale at Christie's, March 2, 1867, lot 73, for £1060 10s., to J. C. Harter, Esq.
- Rough and Ready ... Not engraved
 Exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1857.

1858.

(AGED 56.)

403. The Maid and the Magpie ... Engraved by Samuel Cousins, R.A. 1862
 The original picture, exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1858, was bequeathed to the Nation by Jacob Bell, Esq., in 1859. A picture was painted for Mr. Bell, for 100 guineas, and he was afterwards offered 2000 guineas for it; he paid the money into Sir Edwin's bank, and went to him to relate the incident, omitting the names, telling Sir Edwin that the seller would not keep the money, but intended to get him to paint another picture for it. Sir Edwin was so pleased at this act of generosity, that he said "he shall have a good one." On asking the name of the unknown admirer, Mr. Bell remarked, as Nathan said unto David, "I am the man." The "Maid and the Magpie" was the picture painted.
- The Twa Dogs ... Not engraved
 Another version of this subject was exhibited at the British Institution in 1858.
- Extract from a Journal whilst at Abbotsford... Not engraved
 "Found the great poet in his study laughing at a Collie dog playing with Maida, his favourite old deerhound, given him by Glengarry; and quoting Shakespeare—'Crabbed old age and youth cannot agree.' On the floor was a cover of a proof-sheet sent for correction by Constable of the novel then in progress. N.B. This took place before he was the acknowledged author of the Waverley Novels."
 Exhibited at the British Institution in 1858.

1859.

(AGED 57.)

- 404.* Jacob Bell, Esq. (157) ... Engraved by Thomas Landseer, A.R.A. 1869
 Painted very shortly before his death. The position of the hands was the way he usually placed them. The original picture was presented by the Artist to T. Hyde Hills, Esq., and bears the following inscription—"Portrait of my excellent friend Jacob Bell, painted by E. Landseer at one painful sitting a few days before his death; given to his very worthy successor T. H. Hills, by his friend the author. E. Landseer, R.A., 1859." It was exhibited at the International Exhibition of 1872.
405. Doubtful Crumbs ... Engraved by ditto 1862
 The original picture, exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1859, was painted for the late E. Bicknell, Esq., at whose sale at Christie's, April 25, 1863, it was bought by the Marquis of Hertford for £2415; it now belongs to Sir Richard Wallace, Bart., and was exhibited at the Bethnal Green Museum.

- 406.*The Hunted Stag (230) ... Engraved by Thomas Landseer, A.R.A. 1862
 The original picture, exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1859, under the quotation of "Bran will never put another stag to bay, and Oscar will not make out by himself; the deer will do fine by himself," belongs to Thos. Walker, Esq. When the picture was exhibited it represented a calm instead of a storm; it was altered afterwards. It was once the property of Mr. Llewellyn, and was put up at Christie's, March 9, 1861, lot 99, and bought in for £1000. Two crayon sketches of this subject were sold at the Artist's sale, lots 525 and 526, the first was purchased by Lord Feversham for £325 10s., and the second by Messrs. Agnew for £346 10s. This subject has since been engraved smaller by G. Zobel.
407. The Prize Calf ... Engraved by T. L. Atkinson 1871
 The original picture, exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1859, was painted for the late Elkanah Bicknell, Esq., and sold at his sale at Christie's, April 25, 1863, lot 89, to Mr. Wallis for £1890. It afterwards belonged to Duncan Fletcher, Esq., and was sold at his sale at Christie's, May 20, 1865, lot 33, for £1438 10s., to Messrs. Agnew.
- A Kind Star ... Not engraved

- 410.*Prince Albert at Balmoral (138)... Engraving by W. H. Simmons 1875
 The original drawing belongs to Her Majesty The Queen.
 This subject has been lithographed by J. A. Vinter, as a private plate belonging to Her Majesty The Queen. A small line plate was engraved by F. Bacon for Her Majesty's "Leaves from a Diary in the Highlands."
411. The Fatal Duel ... Engraved by Thomas Landseer 1863
 Engraved for the Artist's own work of "The Forest." The original drawing, exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1861, belongs to His Grace The Duke of Sutherland, K.G. At the time this drawing was exhibited, a question was raised in Land and Water as to whether Sir Edwin Landseer was correct in painting a drop of blood on the broken brow antler. Mr. Frank Buckland took up the subject and came to the conclusion that although it was just possible in one particular state of the deer's antlers such an appearance might have presented itself, yet as far as this picture was concerned the artist's pencil had been guided by pictorial exigencies rather than a close study of nature. He has also convinced himself that what a white horse was to Wouvermans, a "bit of red" was to the great English animal painter, and quotes some of the curious shifts and contrivances he has sometimes put to for the sake of this.
- 412.*Taming the Shrew (318) ... Engraved by James Stephenson 1863
 The original picture, exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1861, was once the property of His Grace The Duke of Sutherland, and was sold by him at Christie's, May 19, 1866, lot 49, for £1501 10s., to H. W. Eaton, Esq., M.P., who exhibited it at Paris in 1867 under the title of "La Jument Domptée."
- 413.*The Pass (89) ... Engraved by Thomas Landseer, A.R.A. 1868
 The original crayon drawing belongs to Lady E. Pringle.
- 414.*Some of the Best Harts in the Forest (82) ... Engraved by ditto 1868
 The original crayon drawing belongs to Lady E. Pringle.
 The above two plates were engraved for the Artist's own work of "The Forest," and were both exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1861 as "Scenes in the Marquess of Breadalbane's Deer Forest."
- *A Sin Offering (363)... Not engraved
 Exhibited at the British Institution in 1861. It now belongs to H. W. Eaton, Esq., M.P.
- *Azim (371) ... Not engraved
 An Arab horse. The picture belongs to Sir Robert Peel, Bart.

1862.

(AGED 60.)

- 415.*Hunter and Hounds (397) ... Engraved by Thomas Landseer 1863
 This picture was very much altered after it was engraved. The original picture belongs to H. W. Eaton, Esq., M.P.
 It was exhibited at the British Institution in 1865, as "No Hunting till the Weather Breaks."
- *Lady Ashburton and Child (192) ... Not engraved
 Portraits of Lady Louisa Caroline Ashburton and her daughter Mary Florence. The picture was never finished, and was sold at the Artist's sale, lot 128, for £252, to T. H. Hills, Esq.

— Studies and Sketches by Sir Edwin Landseer

This most interesting and instructive series of wood engravings is now in course of publication in the Art Journal, with descriptions by Dr. James Dafforne. It was originally intended to place these subjects—200 in number—under their proper dates, but the insertion of so large a number of sketches would have tended to render this catalogue somewhat confusing. The sketches belong to all periods of his career.
